DESCRIPTION:

The goal of Dutch breeding in the 1980's and 1990's was primarily to capture the magic of the wily and long-flowering Haze line. To do so, they hybridized it to reduce flowering time or improve structure and yield -- two of the most popular matches were Skunk and Northern Lights, which are all represented here.

The potential effect for most users is smoothly uplifting with just the right amount of body relaxation. Most users consider this a daytime choice, but it may be an especially amazing choice first thing in the morning
